

Is saying “Can” versus “Can’t” an inherited trait?

In 1947, William Rosenfeld joined the retail agency started by his father, A.M. Rosenfeld. His legacy of independence and service continues today, distinguishing Canon as a prime developer of innovative products in wholesale property and casualty insurance.

Year after year, we've proven the value of having established some of the strongest relationships in the specialty market.

Unusual Hazards? Unusual Company.

Why take risks with your risky business? Canon's can-do spirit of innovation is at work for you, representing our clients to a variety of excess and surplus lines markets, particularly in placing risks which present unusual hazards.

We provide our broker clients access to a diverse array of Personal and Commercial lines insurance products.

Unusual Hazards? Unusual Company.

Moreover, as specialists in risk packaging, we effectively develop coverage for groups with relatively homogeneous exposures, achieving substantial advantages in form and premium.

Who's Who.

Business matters are family matters at Canon. We take them seriously - and personally. Which is why, for over half a century, our family has focused on delivering critical coverages, adding value through exclusive in-house facilities. Today, Canon's family tradition continues to be carried forward by Andrew Rosenfeld, President of Canon Insurance.
